Dear Board of Building Standards:

I first met John Coppock in 1996 when I was in Greene County as an electrical inspector. I was inspecting an electrical installation for him which was a very good and neat job. Since then, we have become friends. We have worked together as electricians on various jobs, both residential and commercial. I would highly recommend John for an ESI position. He has great integrity, knowledge and would be very fair to all electricians. Please consider him for an ESI position upon passing the exams.

Subject: Mr. John Coppock Consideration for Electrical Inspector and Verification of Electrical Installation Service

To: Ohio Board of Building Standards

It is with the highest regard that I recommend Mr. John Coppock for an Electrical Inspector position. After viewing Mr. Coppock's previous work, I contracted him to install 120 & 240 Vac circuits in my workshop. Mr. Coppock modified my proposed technical drawing to improve safety, enhance functionality and comply with NEC requirements. During the installation process, Mr. Coppock took the time to explain why the changes were necessary; demonstrating a unique ability to make the most technical electrical subject a simple learning task.

I am not an electrician; however, as a 30-year aviation craftsman I can recognize quality work. The electrical work accomplished by Mr. Coppock reflects an attention to detail, and the aesthetic of a master craftsman. If your organization is needing an Electrical Inspector who demonstrates a comprehensive knowledge of the electrical code, believes in excellence in trade craft, and is an exceptional communicator, then Mr. Coppock is the logical choice. Please feel free to contact me directly if you have any questions.

Sincerely Offered,

Good Afternoon Regina –

Per your request I am writing this email in an attempt to explain further the City of Columbus's Building Compliance team.

We are all aware of the typical processes and responsibilities of a building department. We are also all aware that at times properties are identified that have experienced an unforeseen event or simply failed to adhere to established regulations. As you know these too need addressed by the building department but whereas most departments are small in nature and ask their current staff to do both the City of Columbus created an entire team called Building Compliance.

The Building Compliance team consists of case managers, inspectors, administrative personnel, and a manager. The team reports directly to the Building Official while working closely with the rest of the department, including the Director's office on cases big and small. They investigate potential unsafe buildings from events such as fires, vehicle impacts, and advanced deterioration. They also investigate work being performed without approval/permits, which may threaten the general safety of the public, residents, or future owners and occupants of a building or space. Additionally they will investigate violations of the normal plan approval and inspection process by investigating unlicensed contractors, buildings occupied without the proper certificate of occupancy, and building components which have been compromised to the extent that they pose an imminent threat.

The Building Compliance team receives their service requests from a variety of sources.

- Internal resources include:
 - Trade specific inspection staff (structural, electric, plumbing, HVAC)
 - Plans examiners, architects and/or engineers on staff, including the building official

External resources include other enforcement agencies such as:

- Columbus Fire Department
- Code Enforcement with the Department of Development
- City Attorney's office
- Columbus Police Department
- And to a lesser extent Departments of Health, Public Service, and Utilities

The building compliance team is tasked with managing a caseload of properties to include tracking, monitoring, and necessary follow-up; Create and issue building orders for violations of building codes; Ensure consistent communication with all pertinent parties; Provide various status reports of current cases to senior management, residential/business owners, City officials, and other stakeholders; Prepare cases for litigation as necessary; Certify all requirements have been met to obtain compliance. They have a wide range of resources, including a close relationship with the City Attorney's office, trade specific inspection staff, and the Building Official. They also work with other enforcement agencies, including the Code Enforcement Division of the Department of Development, Columbus Fire, Police, and even the Health Department, Public Service, and Public Utilities. Their tools and processes range from the issuance of building orders to punitive fees for working without permits, to civil legal action, to first degree misdemeanor criminal violations.

The guiding principle and fundamental goal of the Building Compliance team is a safe and compliant building via the established building department procedures.

Please note that the Building Compliance team does not enforce maintenance items or similar issues, that task is completed by Code Enforcement with the Department of Development.

I hope this helps but please let me know if you have any additional questions.

To Whom It May Concern:

Please find the enclosed completed application for Fire Protection Plans Examiner. I respectfully request the Boards consideration of my current ICC certification as Fire Plans Examiner, as well as my field experience and other training and ICC certifications in granting this certification without examination. Enclosed with the completed application is a copy of my current ICC Fire Plans Examiner certification as well as a list of all of my current ICC certifications and my Building Code Academy attendance certificate for your reference.

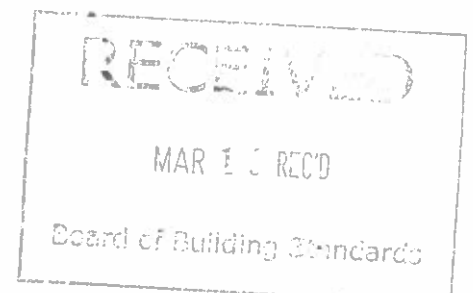

Before retiring from my career position as Assistant Fire Chief/Fire Marshal I was charged with conducting reviews of all fire protection systems plans for code compliance for the Mayfield Village Fire Department for more than two decades and had worked closely with my Chief Building Official in conducting the final inspections and witnessing acceptance tests for these systems and providing written documentation to the building official of the results of the acceptance tests and inspections. My work helped build mutual trust and respect between our respective departments and has enhanced my knowledge and understanding of the design and operational requirements for fire protection systems.

Thank you for your consideration and time. I look forward to your response. Please feel free to contact me at your convenience for any reason.

Respectfully,

Hi Meg,

Based on the information you provided It would appear your test for FPPE is based on the ICC test for Certified Fire Sprinkler Inspector. The criteria seems exclusive to water based fire protection and as such is more focused with regard to that specific area of application. The ICC Fire Plans Examiner examination, however covers the following five categories: Administration, Occupancy, Hazardous Materials, Fire Protection, and Egress Safety. The Fire Protection category is broken down into several sub-categories which are as follows: Water Supply for Fire Protection, Sprinklers, Standpipes, and Alternate Automatic Fire Extinguishing Systems, Fire Alarm and Detection Systems, Portable Fire Extinguishers, and Smoke Control Systems. While the exam for Fire Plans Examiner may not focus entirely on water based fire protection it offers a more comprehensive evaluation of the knowledge and skills required of a Fire Plans Examiner.

In 2006, I obtained an individual fire protection license from the Office of the State Fire Marshal, Bureau of Testing and Registration for Inspection, Testing and Maintenance of Fire Alarms and Detection Systems and Fire Sprinkler and Standpipe Systems. I have maintained this license current ever since. Along with the Ohio Fire Code, chapter 9, The study documents required for the Fire Sprinkler and Standpipe Exam included: NFPA 13, NFPA 14, NFPA 13R, NFPA 13D, and NFPA 25. The study documents for the Fire Alarm and Detection Equipment exam included: NFPA 72. Both of these exams were closed book requiring those taking it to have a comprehensive understanding and knowledge of the content and how to apply the requirements.

I have attached some supporting documents from the Fire Marshal's website as well as the ICC for your review along with a copy of my Individual Fire Protection License verification.

That's the criteria we use for accepting alternative testing for a certification.

Subject: Re: FPPE tests and requirements

Hello Meg, Thank you all for your consideration, I truly appreciate your time and effort.

Back in 2006, I became aware that the ICC had recently established a credentialing program for Certified Fire Marshal. Many jurisdictions assign the title of Fire Marshal to the professionals who perform fire prevention, inspection, public fire safety education, fire investigation and plan review duties for their organization, however as you are most likely aware Ohio offers no official certification that encompasses all of these skills. After researching the program, it became clear that it offered a comprehensive evaluation of all the requisite skills required of someone tasked with the job of Fire Marshal, as well as some of the technical and administrative skills reserved for building officials. The concept of professional development through credentialing appealed to me in that I saw it as a means to establish greater credibility with other professionals, contractors and peers. while challenging my abilities and increasing my knowledge and skill level.

The Certified Fire Marshal credentialing program at the time was comprised of multiple individual certifications, each one of which had its own examination. Each required individual certification exam had to be passed successfully in order to qualify for the Certified Fire Marshal credential. The individual certifications included: Fire Inspector I and II, Fire Plans Examiner, and both CBO modules: Certified Building Official-Legal and Management, Certified Building Official-Technical and finally, Certified Fire Marshal.

Preparing for these exams, especially the CBO modules was both fun and challenging. I purchased the books and study guides recommended by ICC as well as IFC and IBC flashcards and began preparing. I was tasked with learning and understanding the application of the fire and building codes as well as how to run a fire prevention bureau and building department. The review of construction documents was also a large part of the examination process and included not only fire protection plans of several types, but also general plumbing, structural aspects and means of egress. The construction documents used for the examinations were supplied at the testing location. The nearly 18 months I spent preparing for and taking these exams was invaluable in my professional development as well as my understanding of the building code and the BCO's role and responsibilities.

When I was awarded the credential of Fire Plans Examiner by the ICC, BBS certification as a fire protection plans examiner was still years away but I feel like the battery of exams along with the process of preparation and review and my years of experience in applying the requisite skills would at least be equal to the testing and evaluation currently required by the BBS.

I hope this information is what you are looking for. If you require anything further, please don't hesitate to reach out.

Again, Thank you all for your consideration.

Kindest Regards,

Assistant Chief Michael Girbino, Fire Marshal (retired)

Hi Mike,

We're reviewing your request for full certification without further testing. It would be helpful for us to understand the testing content you have already passed, to know whether the many tests you have taken align with the designated tests for FPPE.

That will help us to make a determination whether the test requirements have been met, with the combination of tests you have taken.
